Senate Takes Action on Proposals

The regular meeting of the Texarkana College Student Senate was held Tuesday, Nov. 15th at 11 a.m. in the Senate Room.

The Senate voted twelve to four to match funds with the college to purchase a new color television set for the Student Center. The matter will now go to the Committee of Twelve.

The Senate also voted unanimously to sponsor a "Homecoming" football game. The flag football game will feature Arkansas against Texas. Lists to sign up for each team and lists to sign up for cheerleader are in Dean Hughes' office. The first 25 players to sign up for each team and the first eight cheerleaders to sign up for each side will be taken. Refreshments will be provided by the Student Senate for participants and spectators. The game will be held behind the Language Arts Building before the end of the semester during the Activity Period.

Dean Hughes gave a report on the financial outcome of the Miss Texarkana College Beauty Pageant and said that there are many non-college sponsored activities on campus next semester and that the students should take full advantage of them. Dean Hughes said that the Community Concert series will be free to TCC students this year and that students desiring to attend a Community Concert Association event should pick up their tickets in the Dean of Student's office the week of the concert.

In other Senate action, a proposed amendment dealing with the allocation of equal funds to campus organizations was tabled for a second time pending further study.

The Senate also voted to present to the Senate Activities Committee a plan to have a "Back to School" Dance at the beginning of next semester. It was also reported that Jaywalk, a band from the Little Rock area will perform at the Dec. 3rd Snowball Dance in the Student Center Ballroom.

Auditions Being Held for Musical

Auditions for the Spring Musical will be held November 21 at 7 p.m. in the TCC Auditorium. The auditions will be for interested singers, dancers, actors, and stagehands. Mrs. Nancy Keyton of the Speech-Drama Department and Mrs. Sue McCrossen of the Music Department will be directing the production.

Interested students wishing additional information may contact Mrs. McCrossen in Room 114 of the Music Building, or call extension 255.

Past Shows have included such Broadway hits as "Carnival", "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever", "Guys and Dolls", "The Fantastiks", and "Calamity Jane".

Dr. Joyce Brothers, noted psychologist, will speak at Texarkana College Nov. 29th at 11 a. m. All TCC students with proper identification will be admitted free. Other students will pay $1 while adults will pay $2.

Joyce Brothers To Speak Nov. 29

Dr. Joyce Brothers: noted psychologist, television personality, syndicated newspaper and magazine columnist, and best selling author will visit TCC Nov. 29 to speak at 11 a.m. in the Auditorium.

Her topic will be "How to Unlock Your Mental Powers".

Dr. Brothers has been regarded as one of the 10 most influential women in the world today. She has also been named a half dozen times to "The Most Admired Women" by the Gallup Poll.

In a single week the soft-spoken psychologist talks to more people than Sigmund Freud did in a lifetime. She attributes her success largely to a genuine empathy with her audience and an ability to dispense sound advice in simple language.

Colleagues in her profession believe her unique and hopeful outlook on life is excellent group therapy. Still, Dr. Brothers modestly insists she is merely a link between the viewer and professional literature. "I attempt to give people information which will be of some service to them in everyday living."

In a single week, the soft-tranquility for others, she leads a fast-paced schedule. Besides appearing on such national programs as the TONIGHT SHOW, DINAH, and the MERV GRIFFIN SHOW, she writes a syndicated column that appears in some 350 daily newspapers throughout the nation.

She is also the author of two books. Ten Days to a Successful Memory, a resource manual for remembering names and faces which is published by Prentice Hall, and Better Than Ever, printed by Simon & Schuster, which is Dr. Brothers' personal belief that it is only when a woman passes 40 and her children are on their own she can feel free to live the most exciting years of her life.

Bull Hogs vs. Bull Horns Dec. 1

Football? At Texarkana College?

It may not be your normal everyday football game at TCC on Dec. 1, but it will be the only football game here . . . our "Homecoming."

The Student Senate has made plans for a flag football game between Arkansas and Texas students of TCC. The game will be played during activity period (11:10 a.m.) and will consist of two 20 minute halves. Players may sign up in Dean Hughes' office.

The first 25 players to sign up for each team will be eligible to play. Cheerleaders for each team can also sign up. The first eight to sign up for each team will be the cheerleaders.

The game will be played in the open field behind the Language Arts building. Refreshments and sandwiches will be furnished by the Student Senate for everyone until it runs out.

The team members will be responsible for securing a team captain by voting. Each team is also responsible for getting a coach for their team and setting up practice sessions and drawing up plays.

The Student Senate invites all TCC students to attend this event to find out who really has the best team.

Music Groups To Present Concert

"The Texarkana Community College stage band and TC Singers will present a concert in the college auditorium on November 22 at 7:30 p.m.," says Murry Alewine, music instructor at the college. "The concert will consist of a mixture of vocal jazz, rock, and choral popular music," said Alewine, "and solos will be presented by Portland Coleman, Charles Grizzard, and Jim Beaty."

Alewine mentioned that proceeds from the concert will be used to help finance a tour to Montreal, Canada by these two musical groups next spring. Everyone is invited to attend and the admission charge is one dollar per person. For further information call 838-4541, extensions 257 or 371.

French Club Having Trouble With Meetings - Who Isn't?

The French Club, despite several attempts, is having a great deal of difficulty with its meetings. The problem is that they haven't had any. After five successive weeks and five successive attempts, the club has yet to have an official meeting because no one has shown up.

"Several people have come to the meetings," Mr. Fanning, the French teacher says, "But never at the same time. About three show up one week, then another three or four the next week, and so on, but we can't get them all together at one meeting."

"The club should be a very interesting activity for the students if we can ever get started. We want to meet in the evenings if possible at someone's house, or whatever is agreeable with the students. We haven't really had a chance to discuss any functions, but a few fund-raising ideas and suggestions for entertainment have been made. As of yet, though, we haven't even been able to elect officers."

Everyone interested in the French Club is urged to attend the meeting next Tuesday. It should prove to be an interesting and enjoyable activity, according to Mr. Fanning.

Info Services To College Students May Submit Entry

The National Student Educational Fund is sponsoring a national competition to recognize college students who produce the best informational materials for other students.

$12,000 in scholarships will be awarded in this national competition called the Better Information Project: Prizes in Education (BIPPIE).

Individual students or student groups are eligible to submit entries in any media produced during the 1976-77 or 1977-78 academic years. Materials must be aimed at informing fellow students about campus programs, opportunities and experiences.

Prizes will be awarded in two categories: general information aimed at the entire student community (such as orientation guides, course and teacher evaluations and financial aid manuals) and information aimed at specific student groups including but not limited to women, the handicapped, minorities and older students.

Each of twelve winners will be awarded a trip to Washington, D.C. to accept, on behalf of their school, a $1,000 scholarship, which will be given to a student with financial need.

Application packets and competition rules are available on request from the National Student Educational Fund, 2000 P St. NW, Suite 305, Washington, D.C. 20036. Entries must be postmarked no later than February 28, 1978.

Editor's Note:

Another letter was received this week concerning gay rights. As editor of this paper, no more letters or opinions concerning this subject will be printed this year. The only result from publishing such letters would be anger among the individuals being persecuted. We thank those who take the time to write but we think that this subject has gone far enough.

One Street Nice, Others Need Help

Usually, when streets are constructed in Texarkana, some hard feelings develop between the motoring public and the city. For once, though, Texarkana has accomplished a variety of projects in a small amount of time, without creating much traffic or loss of time to any traveler of these roads.

These projects include: The Texas Viaduct, Third and Fourth Streets, Seventh and Eighth Streets, Robison Road and Richmond Road.

The main concern was whether work on Robison Rd. would interfere with students getting to school without many detours. With half of the construction completed already (the half which usually causes the most traffic problems) not many difficulties have developed.

The reason there were no difficulties is due to some forethought by the city planners. By using good timing (all of the dirty work was done in the summer months) and by getting the most heavily used sections of Robison Rd. finished first, the planners and workers have accomplished a good part of the task. They deserve some recognition for their efforts.

At the same time, the city has undergone a dramatic facelift in the way of one way streets downtown. These projects make it much easier for Texarkana residents to get to and from the business district of the city. Maybe just a little bit too easy as a matter of fact.

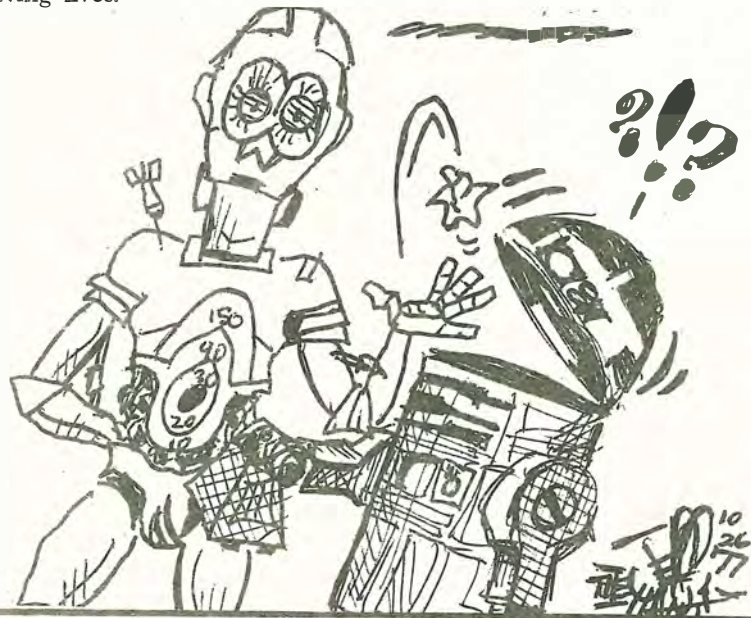

Eighth street is now a one way thoroughfare through the business district, yet it continues on through a residential area. For the city planners to do such a good job on Robison Rd. and Eighth St. at the same time must have been too much to ask.

Since completion, Eighth St. has turned into a virtual monster. At least one collision a week takes place because of a lack of stop lights in the residential area to the west. When someone drives over the ramp and continues through this section on Eighth St., they should be thinking of who they are leaving their possessions to.

It is not only difficult for those on Eighth St. to see what is coming up; it is also difficult for another motorist to see the stop signs now on the streets intersecting it. Because of the trees lining Eighth St. that same driver has problems seeing what is coming at him from the overpass. These hazardous conditions cause just a split-second hesitation and can be accounted for in the many collisions weekly at this "Hot-Spot."

Police have made Eighth St. a prime target for speeders, which is absolutely necessary. The problem rests not in the drivers, but the city. How can anyone stop at the last minute, even at the proper speed limit, when someone has to pull on Eighth St. just to see what is coming? The city council should feel fortunate a suit has not been drawn up as of late.

The problem would be alleviated if only some lights would be established at the points under attack. This does not seem to be too much to ask for in saving people's property and, more importantly, saving lives.

The CANDIDATES

A former state employee who once worked as a migrant farm worker formally announced his intentions to run for Governor of the State of Texas last week at a news conference held in Austin.

Ricardo Lopez, 31, said he will run for governor as an independent candidate. Lopez feels Texas' three largest political parties have failed to answer Texas' problems.

Lopez, who resigned from his job with the Texas Department of Community Affairs, said he has been thinking about running for governor for about two years. He said he finally decided to quit his job and enter politics because of frustration with the State's bureaucracy.

"I resigned as a result of being there for three years and seeing people with some initiative and good ideas being turned down by

After I found out that the water was not working at my house the other day, I was forced to find a good place close by to water my pet plant, Herb.

It didn't take very long to find the perfect spot, but, as always, Herb has to take a negative view on everything . . . even when it concerns life or death for him.

"No," said Herb, "I will not sit still under a broken fire hydrant in the middle of downtown Texarkana. How embarrassing! I would be the laughing stock of the greenhouse. Don't you have any class at all? If you did you would just go next door to the neighbors and borrow some water from them."

"I would if I could, but a water main is broken on our street. The closest water is down on State Line where this hydrant must have been broken. So let's go Herb. You don't want to wilt."

"I can tough it out for a day or so until they get this place fixed again."

"But you know how quickly things get repaired in this city," I said, "Besides, there are some good looking flowers down there ready to germinate."

"Well, I'll go along for the ride," Herb gave in.

"After we got down to State Line, Herb started laughing until he shook. I thought maybe he was going crazy from dehydration.

"Are you alright?" I asked Herb.

"This isn't a fire hydrant you dummy. This is Gateway Fountain."

"Who are you calling a dummy? It looks like a broken fire hydrant! Anybody can make a mistake."

"That's true. This thing looks like a mistake. You know, you were right about those good looking flowers over there," Herb said, hungrily, "Hey baby! Wanna shake a leaf?"

"How about some water first?" I said, "So you'll be in full bloom."

"Sure," said Herb, "This is a different story. To use a fire hydrant is the pits, but to use a city fountain makes me a little more eccentric. You know what? You've got some class after all."

"Thanks, I'm glad you think so."

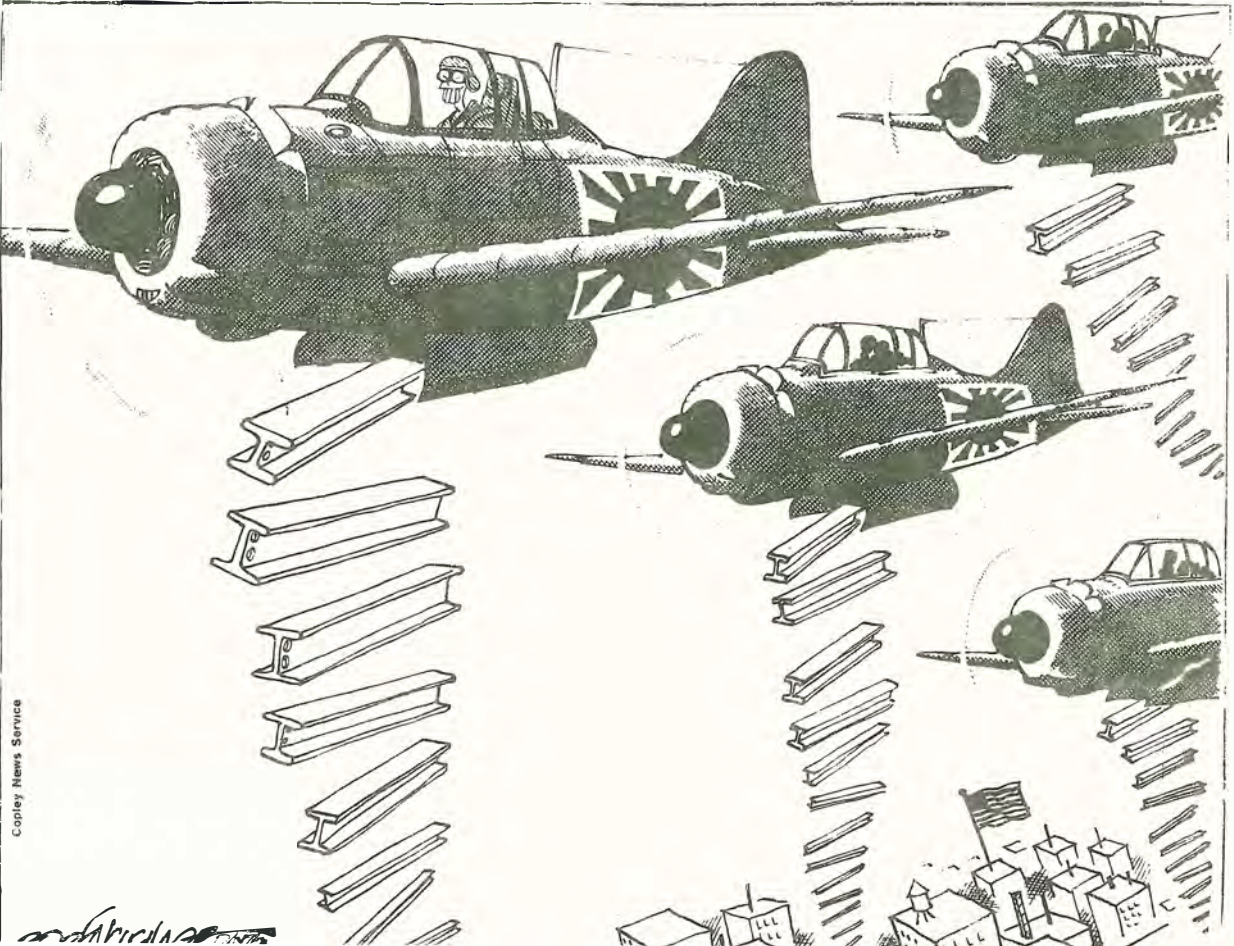

So, finally Herb has found a place to go to be happy. I'm sure this will make the city of Texarkana, Tex. feel better in knowing that somebody appreciates their efforts . . . even if it is a dried-up, sex-crazed plant.

I would like to say a couple of things about love — “Thanks!” and “No Thanks!” Now that I’ve gotten that off my mind, I can move on to something else. O.K.? Everybody that reads my column this week will, upon completion of this article, automatically raise their left arm, holding out their thumb and ring finger on that same left hand, reach down and untie their shoe string on their right shoe with their left hand using only their thumb and ring finger of the above mentioned left hand. Upon completing this, raise the entire left arm with the same fingers (thumb and ring finger) of the left hand and mutter in a stuper, “Sacharine is real good for you!” You must keep repeating this until you can force someone else to read this article. You can return to a “NORMAL” state only when the next person has started muttering in a super, “Sacharine is good for you!”

Dedicated this week to the cast and crew of the “GLASS MENAGERIE” who, along with me, missed the concert in Shreveport a couple of weekends ago. We were stringing lights in the auditorium, while Terry was selling my tickets in Shreveport. Well, Mrs. Parsons, I guess the show must go on and it will. “Break a leg!” Hello, Tammy!

Circle K to raffle off five rides on a helicopter around Texarkana

Unique? You bet!

Circle K will raffle off five chances to ride in a helicopter around Texarkana. Raffle tickets cost $1 each. The money will be used by Circle K to help for expenses during the convention they attend yearly.

Ronald Bright, advisor to Circle K, said such a ride in Dallas or Houston would cost about $20 for the 10 to 15 minute ride. The five winners of the raffle will, therefore, be getting their dollars' worth.

“The helicopter belongs to the Arkansas Civil Defense unit,” said Bright. “Judge Sam Rose and Kenneth Sinyard of Texarkana, Ark. can be thanked for allowing us the use of the helicopter for this project. Dr. Warren Mullen of ETSU-T will be flying the winners of the raffle for us.”

Tickets may be purchased from Circle K members for one of the most unique money making project of this semester.

Two From Nursing Department Attend Conference

Lasca Beck and Gloria Mugno, two of the nursing department instructors, attended the first annual Nurse Educator Conference in Chicago, Illinois, November 6-9.

Mrs. Beck and Mrs. Mugno attended general sessions, workshops, and more intimate "dinner dialogues" where they listened to and met several of the most influential nursing educators in the United States.

Among the nursing educators attending the conference were: Dr. Marlene Kramer, coauthor of Path to Biculturalism—which will be a textbook in the nursing program; Sister Callista Roy, author of Introduction to Nursing: An Adaption Model; and Dorothy J. del Bueno, the Chairperson Elect/Chairperson of the ANA Council on Continuing Education — 1976-1978.

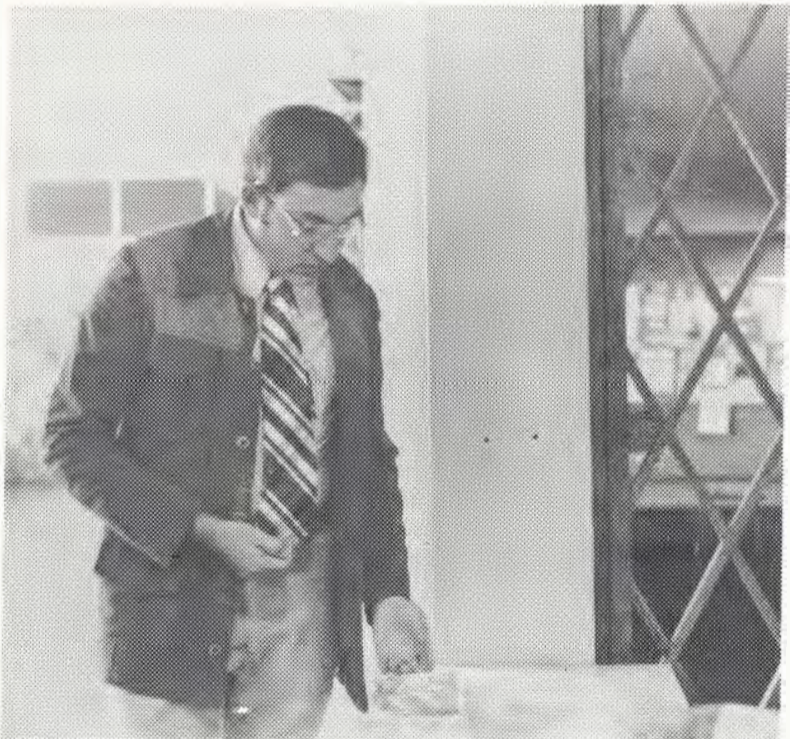

The conference provided a forum for the sharing of information and ideas related to the theme: "from student to effective professional." The dynamics of the transition into professionalism were explored, as well as a variety of other current concerns in nursing education.
