DEALEY PLAZA IN THE BACKGROUND — David Williams, a member of the Assassination Investigation Bureau shows slides to support the conspiracy theory concerning the death of John F. Kennedy. Williams spoke to a large crowd of students and community members Tuesday, just one week short of the 13th anniversary of Kennedy's assassination. The program was sponsored by the Student Activities Committee.

Mobile Unit on Campus Nov. 29, 30 for blood drive

by Beth Lakey

If it were up to you, how many lives would have been saved by using the blood you donated? How many infants, newly born and needing blood, would grow up if their lives depended on your blood donation? How many of your friends and relatives would be alive today if their lives had depended on your gift of blood?

Suzy Barnes, Blood Services, said "Last year, seven months out of twelve, blood had to be sent in from other communities". Suzy said that during December and January alone, 88 units of blood had to be sent in, because Texarkana did not have the blood needed.

The blood in your veins is today's most amazing medicine. It has become a miracle worker. Blood already does more life-saving than any one of our wonder drugs. We have only begun to penetrate its warm mystery and to discover how to use blood to save lives, fight disease, and maintain normal health.

Anyone from 17-65 who is in good health can give blood. A person who has had a recent serious illness or history of certain disease may be prohibited.

Eligible people can give a pint of blood as often as every eight weeks. Fluid volume is restored within a few hours, but it takes 3-4 weeks for the red cells to be replenished.

Donating blood is painless and does not consume much time. From the time you enter the center until you leave, should not exceed 30 minutes. The actual drawing of the blood takes less than 10 minutes.

The mobile unit will be parked on the main parking lot. Everyone wishing to donate blood should drop by the foyer of the student center and set up an appointment.

After a brief interview and tests such as weight, temperature, pulse rate and blood pressure, one unit of blood is taken while in a comfortable reclining position. A short rest period with light refreshments will follow.

Giving blood is a continuous cycle. Every five seconds someone in the United States receives a blood transfusion, yet only 3% of all Americans are donating 100% of all blood given. Blood must be replenished every 21 days and it is up to you to see that Texarkana has the blood supply we need.

Remember the importance and immediate need for blood. Give your share November 29-30, when the Blood Mobile will be located on the TCC Campus. This blood drive is being sponsored by the TCC Circle K Club.

played by Susan Williams. Children of Mak and Gill will be played by Michael Benson (Hal); Elizabeth Ann Benson (Nan); Suzanne Sizemore (Moll); and Ralph Sizemore (Jeff). Neighbor Woman will be played by Libby Smith; Roman Soldier will be played by Bill Barlow; Innkeeper's Wife will be played by Vanessa Goree; Simon Magus will be played by James Davis; Joseph will be played by Wallace Hines.

The chorus a most essential part of the performance will be made up of the members of the College Choir.

Sue McCrossen is the Music Director and Nancy Keyton is the Director Designer.

Staff Development Committee plans for continued growth

General topics and the definition of "staff development", its purposes, goals, and means of fulfillment, were discussed at the first meeting of the TCC Committee on staff development, last week.

Dr. Carl Nelson, president of TCC, opened the discussion by stating that he did not believe in meetings for the sake of meetings. He did feel that staff development was a worthwhile project. "We ought to have some means of improving ourselves, in order that we might do a better job—and staff development can do just that—once we determine what the needs are, what the desires are, and what the budget will be," said Dr. Nelson. He also said that the staff members can look at staff development on three fronts: growth as a human being or individual; growth as a teacher; and better knowledge of subject matter.

Students more self-aware

by Carolyn Creighton

When Dell Jacobs first began teaching business courses at TCC, the present buildings did not exist.

She taught in the Pine Street Junior High building where P. S. J. H. S., Texas High, and TCC were all housed.

Are students now different from those over 20 years ago? No, she says. They have a tendency always to revert to the norm. The 70's students are more self-aware and centered toward self than the 60's students who tended to be more activist in nature. But, Jacobs added that TCC has never really gone full cycle to either extreme.

She also feels that most TCC students are nice and polite, but smiled and said someone once told her the students were that way only because she was.

What about changes in TCC? Well, the dorm life was not well received by the students, nor was it economically feasible, so it was phased out. The girls' dorm was the first to go. Inter-scholastic football died with the dorms and basketball was soon to follow.

The "jeans" of those days were skirts, sweaters, bobby socks, hair ribbons, and the undying saddle shoe. According to Jacobs, the girls were just as pretty then and the boys were just as much fun.

People are the same now as they were then, she says as she leans back and enjoys her cozy office. "Truth never changes, only people's concept of it."

Jacobs is a past president of the Faculty Association and also the Bowie County chapter of TSTA. She received her education at various institutions including the University of Texas and the University of Arkansas; however, she went to junior college right here at TCC.

Before coming here, she taught in the Dallas public schools.

Jacobs says she loves to travel. This past summer she and her husband cruised the Mediterranean and toured Egypt, Israel, Turkey and Greece. The people were very gracious toward her as an American. Jacobs feels that people will return the same feelings shown.

She also reads avidly—"from Pluto to Plato!"

When asked about the quality of education at TCC she replied, "Education is a good teacher and a good student."

Throughout the campaign for the White House, the economy of the nation was a key issue. Unemployment was also tied into this. Ford told us unemployment would be down to 7 per cent by the end of the year. The figures for October show unemployment at 7.8 per cent.

Carter made campaign promises of higher employment and a stronger economy. He proposes to "create" jobs. Increasing the Federal payroll would only raise taxes and spur a higher rate of inflation.

Many people don't just want a job; they want work.

Liz Ray had a job but she didn't have work. Carter should concentrate on creating work . . . not jobs.

Since Jimmy Carter's victory two weeks ago, telegrams have been coming in fast and furious from everywhere. I checked the list of a few of those that were not heard over the news:

"Way to go Jimmy. We are behind you all the way."—Rosalyann and kids.

"We hope your smile will last for the next four years. It is really good for our business."—Ultra-Brite.

"When do I get my plane tickets for getting back to the United States?"—Henry K.

"We sincerely hope you don't get caught like we did."—Dick and Spiro. "Thanks for all the advertisements for us during your campaign."—Skippy, Pal and Peter Pan.

"Good luck when you try to break our company up. We hope the country doesn't have to run on peanut oil instead of our kind."—Exxon.

"Congratulations on your victory. I hope I helped get some votes for you. Maybe I can see you sometime."—Miss November

"Finally we have found someone to get along with." A democratic Congressman.

"We just want you to know that you are not the only one."—The Lust in Our Hearts.

"How about a shipment of peanuts with our wheat next time."—Vladimir.

"What ever you do, don't fall or bump your head."—Gerry.

"We hope you will call on us anytime if you have any problems in the White House."—Woodward and Bernstein.

"Now that the elections are over, how about fixing me up with a good looking, female peanut plant?" Herb the Plant, Joe's Diner, Texarkana.

Clubs meet jointly see film on France

At a joint meeting of the French and Spanish clubs a film on France was shown during their regular monthly meeting.

The film was shown by Albert Riusech who takes students abroad each summer. The four-to-six week course offers students an opportunity to gain up to six hours of college credit in six weeks for less than $1,000. The price also includes sight-seeing tours.

Non-language students are eligible for his summer trips, according to Riusech and the film will be shown again if anyone is interested. For further details, contact Riusech in AD Room

Yearbook underway; staff selected

The TCC '77 yearbook staff has started work on the pages for the first deadline on Nov. 29.

Editor Carol Frost said, "We're starting off rather slowly, but those first few pages are always pretty difficult. We've picked out our theme, and I'm getting excited about it."

Staffers were chosen last week, and they are Diane Bowen, associate editor; Diane Phillips, class editor; Darlene Ussery, club editor; Carolyn Creighton, business manager; and Bill Blue, Lyndon Bradley, Robert Dodd, and Randall Brown, photographers.

NTSU Emissary on campus

A representative of North Texas State University, Bruce Walker, will be on campus Monday, Nov. 22 in the foyer of the student center.

Walker will be here from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. to discuss admissions, housing, and financial aid to anyone interested in transferring to NTSU in the spring or fall.

Ronald Bright, one of TCC's counselors urges anyone curious about NTSU to go by and visit with Walker.
