President, Dean Attend Meeting

President J. W. Cady and Dean C. C. Burrus returned early this month from Louisville, Ky., where they attended a meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges.

During the first half of 1963 the Texarkana College faculty conducted a self study and evaluation of every department and activity of the college and made a report to the Southern Association of Colleges. In the fall of 1963, having examined the report of the self study, the Southern Association sent a Visitation Committee to Texarkana College. At the recent meeting of the Association in Louisville the TC self study report was approved and accepted.

Approval of the self study report means that Texarkana College will continue to be recognized as an accredited member of the Southern Association of Colleges.

The improvement of accreditation practices in the Association, which has 404 junior and senior colleges as members in good standing, constituted the main study of the Association during the Louisville meeting.

President Cady also attended a meeting of the Colleges Delegate Assembly while at the conference.

Dr. C. M. Ribariu Joins TC Staff

Dr. C. Michael Ribariu was appointed Director of Public Relations by the Board of Regents at the regular meeting of the Board early this month. He is already at work on the job.

Having been associated with various institutions of higher learning for a number of years, Dr. Ribariu comes to Texarkana College from the University of Orlando, Fla. At Orlando he was with the Evening Division of the school and taught some classes in education, psychology, and speech. He also served during that time as guidance and counseling psychologist assigned to the Base Education Office at the Orlando Air Force Base.

Dr. Ribariu has a B.A. degree in radio and television education from the College and Conservatory of Music of Cincinnati. From the University of Cincinnati he has a master of education degree in administration and supervision. He has also completed some studies with the University of Oklahoma.

A World War II and Korean War veteran, Dr. Ribariu has had over 13 years of active duty in military service.

Married to the former Mary Ellen Bush of Texarkana, the Ribarius have a son and daughter, and Dr. Ribariu is an active member of Toastmasters International, the Boy Scouts, the National Rifle Association, and the Air Force Association.

Spencer Speaks To TSEA Group

The William Porter Akin Chapter of TSEA met in the Continental Room of the Student Center for its November meeting. Carol Jones, president, led the members in repeating the TSEA pledge.

Routine business was transacted and the following appointments were made: social chairman, Kay Davis; program chairman, Norma Jean Rose; scrapbook chairman, Sandra Littlejohn.

Mr. J. E. Spencer, chairman of the Social Science Division, addressed the club, using as his topic "Civic Responsibility". He stressed that if a person is to meet his moral obligation to the community, he must inform himself concerning the needs of the community. A person cannot afford to be indifferent with reference to his civic responsibility,

Mr. Spencer stated.

The following officers acted as hosts during the social hour: Carol Jones, Linda Dyer, Sally Knight, and Ellen Blackwell. The serving table was centered with a cornucopia laden with gaily-colored fruits, in keeping with the Thanksgiving season.

Mrs. Thelma Bollinger, TC sociology instructor, was a guest. Mrs. Grady Duck is sponsor of the club.

Los Conquistadores of TC Eat in Spanish Style

Los Conquistadores, the campus Spanish club, entertained its members with an elegant Spanish style dinner in the cafeteria and Continental Room of the Student Center Monday night, December 7.

Attending the dinner with the local club members were high school Spanish clubs and their sponsors from Texas High, Dunbar, Arkansas High, Washington High, Ashdown, Hope, and Liberty Eylau. Special guests for the occasion included Mrs. Mar-

Choir to Perform "Gloria" Tonight

Tonight the TC Choir will perform at a special Christmas Concert at 8:00 in the College Auditorium. The featured number of the concert will be Italian composer Antonio Vivaldi's "Gloria". Tonight's program will be the first time "Gloria" has ever been given in this area, according to Glen Owens, choir director.

Other songs will be traditional Christmas favorites. The public will be admitted free of charge to this program.

The TC Choir traveled to KTAL's Shreveport studio to film a television show in early December. Glen Owens, director of the TC Choir, served as master of ceremonies for the half-hour broadcast, "The Magic of Christmas".

Christmas music sung by the choir included some of the songs performed for the TC student body at the last assembly plus other Christmas favorites. Solos were: "White Christmas", sung by Vannette Nash; "Toyland", featuring Wanda Brown; and "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus", sung by Ann Cooper.

The program was aired Sunday, Dec. 7, and will be re-shown at 8:30 Tuesday night, December 22, on KTAL—Channel 6. A local department store sponsored the telecast.

Tee Cee Club Initiates Eight

The Tee Cee Club initiated eight new members on December 3 and 4. The new members are Kyle Steger, Benard Bridges, Jerry Jones, Robert Minton, Jimmy Davis, Bill Gordon, Glen Burrows and Larry Broz.

In other business the club decided to meet every third Thursday of each month at Bryce's Cafeteria. It was also decided that each member would be charged a 25 cent fine if he is absent without a good reason. The club will complete the Texarkana College sign that has been partially destroyed by vandals. Bill Smith is president of the organization.

THE BISHOP'S COMPANY presents this morning in assembly highlights from Shaw's masterpiece, SAINT JOAN. The maid, pictured above, hears in the Angelus bells voices that speak to her across the countryside of Lorraine, France. The Bishop's Company is the only full-time touring repertory group of its kind in the world.

Mrs. King Resigns To Become Teacher

After serving several months as secretary to President J. W. Cady, Mrs. Mabel King recently resigned to become a member of the faculty.

Mrs. King is now teaching a course in stenography which includes typing, shorthand, business arithmetic, office procedure, filing, and business English. The course meets six hours each day and will run for six months. It is co-sponsored by the Texas Education Agency and the Manpower Development and Training Act of the federal government.

Executive Director French Alliances Visits TC

Mr. George G. Duca of New York City, Executive Director of the Federation of French Alliances, visited the TC campus Thursday and Friday, Dec. 10-11, as a guest of the French Club, Le Cercle Francais.

A luncheon honoring Mr. Duca was attended by members of the club, several members of the college faculty, and some instructors in French from local schools.

Introduced by John Pearson, president of Le Cercle Francais, Mr. Duca, world traveler, former member of the diplomatic service, and once a charge d'affaires in Finland, spoke to the group on the influence of French culture and the French language. "The facets of the French language have been so manifold," said Mr. Duca, "that French culture has made a tremendous impact on the world."

Mr. Duca spoke very highly of Mrs. Betty Carter as a teacher of French, and said that Texarkana College will be one of eight colleges from which a student will be selected for a Federation scholarship to study next year in Paris.

What will we think of next? John Lardner, a leading American sociologist, once stated, "It's a well known fact that college students need more relaxation than the rules of normal behavior allow." This truth explains the following statistics: in 1937, 18,082 goldfish were swallowed alive by pursuers of higher learning; in 1949, 12,345 articles of lingerie were looted from girls' dormitories in panty raids; in 1958, 510 football coaches were hanged in effigy on American campuses.

The hanging of coaches in effigy is one of the latest developments in the college students' quest for self-expression. Hanging in effigy — the hanging of a dummy that resembles the victim — dates back many years. The Germans and English, who often performed "live hangings", gradually started the practice of effigy. Effigy resembles the voodoo practice of sticking needles into dolls.

One coach remarked, "Formerly, all that was expected of a coach was knowledge of the game, desire to win, and the ability to build character. Now, he also needs a thick neck." (With the Bulldogs' fine performances this year, Coach Fox shouldn't worry much about effigies.)

College students have found new outlets for high spirits. By 1959, the accent was on telephone-booth-stuffing. Syracuse University is said to have set a record when 26 human beings squeezed into one booth at the same time. (How did they find room to pick up the receiver?)

Who knows, maybe the next fad will be seeing how many elephants that a student can get inside a Volkswagen. Anyone for toilet papering the Student Union building?

What's your favorite song? Your male vocalist? Your female vocalist? The students of TC gave their approval to Andy Williams and Brenda Lee. "Moon River" was polled as the favorite song, although "Summer Place" and "More" were close seconds.

Ricky Nelson and Elvis gave Andy a run-for-the-money. Connie Francis and Barbara Streisand had "Little Miss Dynamite" running scared.

Out of 50 interviewed, Andy Williams polled 23 votes; Brenda Lee, 18; and "Moon River" captured 22 votes. Ricky Nelson received 10; Elvis, 7; others 10. Connie Francis polled 12; Barbara Streisand, 6; others, 4. "Summer Place" received 4; "More, 4; and others 20. (John, Paul, George, or Ringo did not poll a vote.)

This poll shows that college students' ears are not out of tune to good music. Although Andy Williams is no Mario Lanza, and although Brenda Lee is no Teresa Berganza, they are fine musicians in their own right. Brenda Lee has even performed before Queen Elizabeth; "The Andy Williams Show" is viewed by all ages.

"Moon River" does not have the quality that one of Chopin's Etudes has, but there are worse songs that could have won. For example, "Leader of the Pack" recently held the number 1 spot on the Top 40 survey. However, this song did not receive

A Time to Prepare

All set for the holidays? Well, chances are you will be by Friday, December 18. Attending gala parties, greeting old friends, spending money for gifts, and partaking of Christmas Cheer are pleasant activities of the Yuletide Season.

Yes sir, it's a fairly snug little world you're living in, isn't it? That is, unless you happen to glance at a fair sampling of headlines in a current newsmagazine or newspaper. Or think back over the newsworthy events of 1964.

Nineteen sixty-four was a year of fateful events. Among them were Red China's birth as a nuclear power and the Civil Rights Bill's passage. The mysterious shakeup of top Russian officials and the United States and British elections this fall created world-wide interest. Situations in South Vietnam and the Congo are serious matters under consideration by world leaders now.

Who will replace our current leaders and reliable followers when our generation assumes adult responsibilities? Young people need to prepare for the future. You have taken the initial step by pursuing a higher education.

We will need all the knowledge and understanding we can absorb to live in this world of ours.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

There used to be, in this country, something that we held in high regard. It was something that made this country more than just a brown, green, and blue outline on an American Geographical Society map. It was called the PEOPLE. I mean the kind of People who wrote the Declaration of Independence and the kind of PEOPLE who settled this country. I don't mean the new-car-or-bust, status-seeking, keep-up-with-the-Joneses, hair-spray and diamond ring people. I mean PEOPLE who were not led by the phony razz-ma-tazz of Madison Avenue. It seems pretty ridiculous to think that the Constitution was written for the young man whose entire life centers around surfing, suntans, and stereo records.

This used to be a nation of PEOPLE. Now our country is defended by a board of directors. This used to be a nation of individuals; now, if you can find me ten people in this country who are not afraid to have an idea, or twenty people are not afraid to state their opinion on an unpopular subject, come and get me because I want to see what I believe will be the major part of the standing army of PEOPLE.

I wonder where the PEOPLE have gone?

By the way, whatever happened to those two great hits "Does Your Chewing Gum Lose Its Flavor on the Bedpost Over Night" and "How Could You Believe Me When I Said I Loved You When You Know I've Been A Liar All My Life"? Oh well, maybe these two "all time favorites" will make a come-back before long. Keep your fingers crossed. But lately I've heard a song better than those two. I predict that "Pappa Took Our Last Clean Sheet and Joined the Klu Klux Klan" will soar to fame in the near future. Be sure and get your copy while there's plenty in stock.

STRAY BONES

Christmas is almost here. (What an original and profound statement! Where else would it be this time of year?) Anyway, it's nearly here and soon all the little toys will be delivered to all the little girls and boys. I hope I don't get another doll again this year.

For my letter to Santa Claus this Christmas I'm sending him an inventory list from Neiman-Marcus with a note attached: "Take it from the top and work down, Santa, Baby."

You know, it's funny to me, but it seems like every year Christmas waits longer and longer to come—and gets smaller and smaller in size. I remember a couple of years ago when I was in grade school that the Yuletide season seemed to envelope me in a magical atmosphere that had no equal. The whole world was decorated with a sparkling excitement draped tinsel-like through the holidays. Even after Christmas the uniqueness of the season lingered on and on as did the piney scent of the tree and the eternal bowl of hard candy which sometimes didn't finally disappear until around Easter.

Now, Christmas is still Christmas, but oh, what a change! Money, money and more money is needed to supply gifts for this person and that, brother and cousin, best girl friend and favorite teacher. Of course giving is what the season is all about (and who doesn't like to receive presents?), but what happened to all that real fun and mystery and wonderful surprise that perhaps really wasn't much but seemed like heaven on earth to a child. I guess we just grow up.

Nowadays, pink aluminum Christmas trees, T.V. specials, and chocolate covered cherries make up the Yule season. No old fashioned Christmas. Who's to gripe about the absence of the old fashioned Christmas with trips to Grandma's, sleigh rides over the snowy countryside and taffy-making parties when we never knew anything like that.

To listen to the older generation talk you'd think the old days were the "Golden days of Perfection" in which Christmases were filled with unsurpassable grandeur. However, in a few years we will be able to tell our own children and grandchildren about the Christmas at Florida, the year Santa started coming to town in a helicopter, nativity scenes with "Made in Japan" stamped on the bottom and other seasonal traditions.

But what can you do? It would be nice to revert back to the old days of Christmas, but let's face it—we're stuck with our own modern holidays. So we might as well hang our Mor-Pul stretch socks on the thermostat, snuggle under our electric blankets and nod off to sleepyland while visions of imported tangerines dance through our heads.

Well, anyhow, Merry Christmas!

Six out of every ten students at Del Mar College, Corpus Christi, received deficiency slips at the end of the nine weeks. Out of 2089 students 1287 received the slips, which means 61 percent of the students were deficient. The FOGHORN, student newspaper, states that 300 of the students were deficient in three or more subjects. Of the 1341 freshmen, almost 70 percent had one or more deficiencies. Sixty-seven percent of the males who received deficiency slips were working from 21 to 30 hours a week.

TCU's SKIFF reports that the state of California has bought Hell and plans to pave it—either with asphalt or good intentions. It was cheaper to acquire the 300 acres of Hell, California, than to build an overpass for a freeway extension. Hell is—or was—about 50 miles west of the Arizona border, where the average temperature is well above 100, and it is said that few places in the country are hotter than . . .

NEW SECRETARY to President Cady is Mrs. Deanna Huddleston. Mrs. Huddleston hails from Seattle, Washington. Some Large Colleges Have Solved The Parking Problem—So Can We

One very good way to improve crowded parking conditions at Texarkana College would be for Texarkana students to ride bicycles to school instead of driving cars. You read correctly—bicycles. On larger campuses bicycles are the biggest craze since fraternity pins. Students have discovered several advantages to bicycle riding besides solving the parking problem.

Bike riding is refreshing and provides excellent exercise for the fitness- and figure-conscious. Cycling is highly recommended for athletes. Members of the varsity swimming, track, football, and basketball teams at many colleges participate in cycling programs in their off-seasons to keep in top shape. Knute Rockne, famous football coach at Notre Dame, was an ardent advocate of cycling. He often ordered his entire football squad to ride bicycles to develop stamina. One track coach at William and Mary accredited the success of his outstanding miler to the boy's faithful exercising on a bicycle.

Colleges are expanding, and a mile measuring from one end of the campus to the other is not uncommon. Cycling students need not worry about racing from one part of the campus to another within a 10 minute break between classes.

Here are reports about the popularity of bikes on larger college campuses:

Fifteen acres of land have been designated to accommodate its two wheel traffic by the University of California at Davis. There are about as many bikes as students (4,900), and most of the professors have caught the cycling bug. At Cal Davis an active group of campus cyclists call themselves the Cal-Aggie Wheelmen. The members conduct a vigorous program of cross-country riding and racing.

Special "highways" — designated paths with their own road signs—have been constructed for University of Illinois cyclists only. A 1,450 mile bike marathon last spring drew over 300 students from Monmouth College, Illinois.

On the four main highways entering Oberlin, Ohio, home of Oberlin College, signs are posted reading: "Caution—4,000 Bikes in Oberlin". Campus officials estimate that 80% of the students use their bikes every day.

The "Little 500" bike marathon, patterned after the classic auto race at the Indianapolis Speedway, has become an annual event at Indiana University. "Little 500" weekend is almost as gala a campus event at Indiana as Dartmouth's celebrated Winter Carnival.

Who'll be the first to start the bicycle craze at Texarkana College?

Choir Presents Christmas Music

The Texarkana College Choir presented its annual Christmas music at an assembly Tuesday, December 1, in the College Auditorium. The thirty-one member choir opened the program with a version of "Sleigh Ride".

Other numbers included "A Holly Jolly Christmas," "It's Christmas Once Again", "Carol of the Bells", "Silver Bells", "Do You Hear What I Hear?", and "Have Yourself a Merry, Merry Christmas". Vanette Nash sang a solo part from "The Christmas Song", accompanied by the choir.

TC students viewed the choir's outfits for the first time this season at the assembly. Boys sported royal blue blazers, black slacks, and white ascots. Girls wore off-white blazers with royal blue skirts and ascots. On all blazers were the choir's special insignia.

Are You Tired Of the American Traditional School?

If there is anyone who has grown tired of school with its study of textbooks and its dozens of routine activities, perhaps he—or she—would like to spend nine months in the Scandinavian countries and get college credit without going through all of the traditional routine of an American education.

Many American colleges and universities now give credit to students who spend nine months attending the Scandinavian Seminar. Those qualifying will spend the coming academic year living as members of families and studying in the characteristically Scandinavian residential schools of adult education.

Now in its sixteenth year, the Scandinavian Seminar offers an educational challenge which aims to stimulate the student's initiative, stretch his capacity for self-discipline, and deepen his sense of responsibility.

Tuition, room and board, language materials, and one way transportation from New York to Scandinavia is $1800.

Anyone who is interested may get the necessary information from Miss Caryl Ann White, Texas Regional Chairman, Scandinavian Seminar, 3507 Travis Dallas, Texas.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Dick Akins who are the proud grandparents of a baby girl born to their son and daughter-in-law on November 24. Their son attended Texarkana College.

If you've seen several young men around the campus wearing "way-out" garbs, don't worry. It was just the TC club initiates.

Have you ever seen so many worried freshmen faces? Could the first nine-weeks grades be the controlling factor?

How do you think Fletcher Warner, TC cager, feels now that it's 30 degrees outside and his head is bald?

French Instructor Is Guest Speaker

Mrs. Betty Carter, French instructor, was guest speaker for the Alpha Pi Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma at a dinner meeting in the Mirror Room of the Hotel McCartney. Mrs. Raynal Barber, TC English instructor, was installed as a new member.

Mrs. Carter chose "Individuality" as her topic. She developed her theme by referring to modern writers in France, Italy, Spain, and Russia.

In all the writings she used as illustrations, Mrs. Carter found that all the authors seemed to point to the desire of the individual to feel that he must make himself count. Said Mrs. Carter: "If man is to have any meaning, he must find it within himself."

Faculty Makes Plans For Christmas Party

A Christmas dinner party for the faculty, administration, and personnel, with their husbands and wives, is planned for Thursday night in the Continental Room, beginning at 6:30.

Mrs. Carmen McFerran is chairman of the social committee. On the committee with her are Mrs. Lou Ella Humphrey and Richmond White. J. H. Calvert will be master of ceremonies. C. O. Fowler and Henry Wood, Jr., will lead the group in singing. Miss Gwendolyn Dean's flowers committee will decorate the tables.

After the dinner the group will retire to the game room and gymnasium for various games.

Who's Best Dressed On the TC Campus?

Is there any organization in Texarkana College which would like to conduct a campaign sponsored by Glamour magazine to determine "The Best Dressed College Girls for 1965"?

The contest, now in its ninth year, works as follows: each college chooses the best dressed girl on campus, photographs her in three outfits, then submits the photographs and official entry form to Glamour for national judging.

The young women selected will be photographed for the August College Issue and will also visit New York in June as honored guests. Honorable mention winners will appear in a fall issue of Glamour.

The deadline for entering the contest is March 8. If any club is interested in conducting the contest on this campus, get details concerning it from the editor of The Kennel.

Coach Tom Collins' cagers recently opened their basketball season by winning two victories in a two-day tournament at Paris. TC overcame East Texas' B team 65-59, and ropped Weatherford Junior College 64-54.

Against ETSC the backboards were controlled by 6'-2" Fletcher Warner, forward Bob Burns, and 6'-7" Charlie Hale. Hitting from the floor has been the 'Dogs only drawback so far. They have been slow in the first and then have to battle hard and strong in the final minutes of the game.

Burns, Warner, and Hale totaled 34 points against Weatherford, with Burns bringing in 17 of these points.

The 'Dogs met defeat November 27-28 in San Antonio. They played San Antonio Junior College Friday night and were put down 82-69. St. Phillips, an all-Negro team, won the Saturday game 94-71. However, Coach Collins said he wasn't displeased with the Bulldogs' effort in the two losses.

In their first home game, the Bulldogs proved their power by taking LeTourneau's freshman team 80-69. The game was tied eight times in the first half with the 'Dogs gathering strength in the final ten minutes of the game. LeTourneau's crew kept tallying points to keep the 'Dogs against the wall.

In the second half Richard Houston hit twice and Bennie Hunter added a lay-up and two free throws. The score was tied 55-55 with 9:05 left. LeTourneau put the Bulldogs against the wall again with five minutes left. Burns and Houston sewed things up with a flurry of fast shots.

Bennie Hunter racked up 20 points; Burns, 16; Houston, 15; Hale, 11; and Fitts, 10.

Collins said Houston, who starred on the football team, is shaping up better and should help TC in their future games.

In is Now Out
Hot is Now Cool

The End is Only the Beginning

A hip chick in a snicker is a smart, alert girl dressed in her "do-it-yourself" oilcloth rain cape on which her friends have scrawled funny sayings.

As fads go, it's surprisingly practical—waterproof, a good windbreaker, and loose enough to slip comfortably over layers of heavy winter clothing. From a 54 inch square of oilcloth, the chick or cat makes a hole in the center just big enough to slip a cool head through. And that's that—except for trimming the neck and edges with waterproof tape in a matching or contrasting color, and letting friends run wild with an indelible, waterproof magic marker.

A teen who is really "neat" might also make a snicker slicker hat out of oilcloth, something like an updated sou'wester. Those who are extremely "far out" may even sport matching book covers and umbrella holders.

Though "in" now means "out" and what was "hot" to an earlier generation is now "cool", some slang terms are amazingly durable. "Kick the bucket", for example, shows no sign of doing so—even though the expression dates from 1785!

"Button your lip", a frequent injunction in World War II, was first used as a warning in 1787. "Bones" as a slang term for "dice" is at least as old as the 14th century; the poet Chaucer used it in 1387.

If you think of yourself as on the ball, you're old hat—but the latter expression is surprisingly new. There's also some indication that "endsville" and similar "ville" terms are now used by the "Mickey Mouse" (square) and not by the true hipster. Nor does a cool cat refer to something as the "end"; to express satisfaction he may now say: "Everything's everything."

But as long as slang keeps growing and changing—the word "slang", incidentally, was used in 1916 to mean "watch chain"—one thing is sure: whatever is "the end" at any given moment is only the beginning.

ALL-AMERICA!

Congratulations to TC's Wardell Richardson on winning a berth on the Junior College All America first team's defensive unit. The news was released from Pasadena, Calif. after The Kennel had gone to press—too late for a longer story.

Bulldogs Saddle Panola Ponies

By Diana Smith

The Texarkana Bulldogs saddled the Panola Ponies and rode to a 71-58 victory Monday night in the Tiger Gym.

The Ponies, having a quick lead, seemed more interested in dribbling than in scoring, and the 'Dogs stole the ball several times.

After Bob Burns intercepted a pass from Panola, Billy Fitts put the 'Dogs in front 11-9 with 11 minutes left in the half. Richard Houston, forward, made five quick goals with Fitts making 8 points in the first half.

In the second half, Burns and Fletcher Warner did most of the scoring. The Ponies came alive and took over the lead.

The 'Dogs finally found the way to pass the midcourt line, and they had a chance to change the score when they got 21 free throws. Only 12 of the throws were good, but a flurry of shots were hit in the final two minutes of the game.

TC could manage only 21 of the 36 free throws given to them, and they had to outscore the Panola Ponies on their own. High scorer for TC was Burns with 16 points; Fitts hit 14 and Houston totaled 10.

This win gives the 'Dogs a 4-2 record. They will open conference play Monday night at Tyler against the Tyler Apaches.

CERTIFICATES OF APPRECIATION were presented to Coaches Robert Fox and Tom Collins in an assembly following a winning football season. The certificates were signed and presented by all of the members of the team.
